Interfor Scholarships Awarded to Local Youth

Three young people from the Pacific Northwest are this year's recipients of Interfor's Dal Shemko Memorial Scholarship, which provides financial assistance to support students' academic and career goals.

The recipients were chosen for their academic achievements, volunteer and community contributions, and educational and career goals. They all have parents or guardians who work at Interfor's US Northwest operations. Each student has received $2,000.

"The Dal Shemko Memorial Scholarship fulfills our commitment to support our employees, their families, and the communities where we operate," says Bruce Luxmoore, Vice President, US Northwest Operations. "Interfor is proud to support these students to achieve their academic dreams, and we wish them the best of luck."

This year's recipients:

- Martin Adams (Port Angeles, WA) will be attending a junior college, and later a degree-granting college, to pursue his goal of becoming a game warden.
- Avery Groner (Molalla, OR) plans to pursue a double major in History and Education and become a teacher. He is attending Oregon State University in the fall.
- Alexander Pitton (Bellingham, WA) wishes to get his degree in Physical Therapy. Alex will pursue his Physical Therapy Assistant degree first – and gain work experience in the field – before finishing higher qualification.

The Dal Shemko Memorial Scholarship honors the life of long-time Interfor employee, Dal Shemko.
